The strawberry approaches the price when it can be put to the base, ignoble use of the strawberry festival. Great is the fall thereof.

The decision of the Supreme Court in the original package cases is taking hold in Kansas, where the agents of original package houses are receiving sentences of $1500 fine and 60 days in jail.

Every new vessel added to our navy increases the respect with which Uncle Sam is treated by foreign nations. Nations are like individuals; when it is known that they are prepared to fight they are seldom interfered with.

Everyone will rejoice at Johnston's prosperity. Since the famous flood occurred the population has increased 125%, and the valuation of the town is now $9,000,000, against $2,000,000 before the destructive waters broke loose.

The supreme court of the state has just rendered an interesting decision in which it is held that liquor prosecutions begun by a town grand jury before a justice and finished in county court by the state attorney, having been appealed by respondent, the grand jury is entitled to the moiety of the fine instead of the state's attorney.

If the West wishes the East to wake up in earnest in reference to the World's Fair at Chicago in 1893, let the managers make the announcement unanimously requested by the Christian Church of the whole country, that the doors shall be kept closed on Sunday; and Eastern enthusiasm for the Fair will know no bounds.

The bill to enable the Queen of England, by an order in council to prohibit British subjects from catching seals in Behring sea has passed both houses of parliament, and the outlook for a closed season is distinctly brighter. The government at Washington has ordered that only 7,500 seals—a number sufficient to support the natives—be taken this season by the North American Commercial Company.

The death of Sir John A. Macdonald, the Canadian premier, occurred a little over a week ago. The loss of a statesman so prominent as Sir John is one from which the dominion will not easily recover. He was the leading Canadian of the day, and there is none wholly competent to fill his place. What effect his death will have upon the fortunes of the conservative party cannot be foretold. Whatever change may come will not be immediate. But just now all Canadians, without regard to party, are mourning their and their country's loss.

The proposition that the United States and Mexico shall jointly guarantee the interest on $100,000,000 of 2 per cent. 100 year bonds to secure the construction of the Tehuantepec ship railway and ship canal is not likely to find popular favor just at this time. The American people have their minds set on the construction of the Nicaragua Canal, and legislation was begun in Congress last session to guarantee the Nicaragua bond. The Tehuantepec project, brought forward now, can only embarrass the canal scheme without any substantial benefit to the Tehuantepec route. One at a time is a sufficiently large undertaking for the United States.

The most critical campaign in the history of Ohio politics opened Tuesday when the gavel fell on one of the largest and most enthusiastic Republican state conventions the commonwealth has ever known. The importance of the result of this campaign, not only to the state but to the nation is fully realized by the typical "Ohio man" to day, and all the artifices and devices known to modern politics will doubtless be exerted by both parties to win a favorable verdict from the people in November next. Wm. McKinley was unanimously nominated for governor and the tariff will be the chief issue in the campaign.

THE OLDEST WOMAN PREACHER.—The oldest woman preacher in this country is Rev. Lydia Sexton who was born in New Jersey, in 1799, and who still preaches in different parts of the West. She predicts that she will live until 1901, thus extending her life into three centuries. Mrs. Sexton is a granddaughter of Marquis Anthony Cozot, who came to America early in the seventeenth century. She has many relations in New Jersey, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, and Washington. Her memory is excellent and her sight remarkably good. Her voice is clear and melodious, and she delights to sing sacred songs to the congregation.

At the meeting of the Farmer's League at Montpelier the following resolutions were adopted: Resolved, By the Vermont Farmers' League.

First, That we are unqualifiedly opposed to class legislation.

Second, That we favor an equal and just system of taxation, based upon all real and personal property alike, and we demand of congress a graded income tax.

Third, That we demand strict economy in expenses of state and national government, with salaries of officials to correspond with the financial condition of tax payers.

Fourth, That we favor a sound and sufficient currency.

Fifth, That we demand a free vote and fair count for every voter, and the adoption of the Australian system of voting for the whole state.

Sixth, That we favor a universal compulsory common school education, after a reasonable period, as a condition of suffrage.

Seventh, That we demand a rigid limitation of all monopolies, especially such as operate on farm products.

Ninth, That we favor the prohibition of the adulteration of food and the traffic in intoxicating liquors as a beverage.

Tenth, That we favor a rigid restriction of alien ownership of lands and immigration of criminals and paupers.

MEETING OF THE DOCTORS.

The Orleans County Medical Society met at the Newport House Thursday, June 11, for its annual meeting. The attendance was unusually good. The meeting was of great interest and profit to the participants. The programme was as follows:

11 a. m.—Roll call, Reading of Records, Reception of new members, Report of censors, Unfinished business, Election of officers; 12:30 p. m.—Dinner; 1:30—Annual Address, C. W. Dustin, M. D.; 2:30—Report of cases, F. S. Gray, M. D.; 3:30—Typhoid fever, R. B. Skinner, M. D.; 3:30—Practure of Lower Extremity, E. W. Clark, M. D.; 4:30—Pleuritis, G. F. Adams, M. D.; 4:30—General Discussion; 5:00—Adjournment.

Drs. F. W. Cummings of North Troy and C. V. Bogue of West Derby were cordially received as members of the society. Dr. Branch as chairman of the board of censors reported that the state law had been enforced in two or three instances of quacking as exemplified by travelling "Drs." advertising in the county.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, C. F. Branch; Vice President, W. F. Gilman; Secretary and Treasurer, G. F. Adams; Censors, J. F. Wright, F. S. Gray, J. M. Currier.

Dr. Hinman made motion that Drs. Branch and Gray be appointed as committee to draft resolutions upon the death of Dr. Blanchard. Dr. Hinman was subsequently added to the committee by vote of the society.

Dr. Gray presented an interesting case of heart disease and by vote of society written instructions were given Dr. Gray as to the subsequent treatment of the case. Dr. Skinner gave a paper upon typhoid fever which embraced a thorough description and history of the disease, quite practical at this season of the year when physicians may soon expect it to be more or less prevalent. His opinion is that in certain conditions of the system the disease may be directly contagious, but that more often it comes from outside the body, from specific cause.

Dr. Clark had something to say upon fractures of the lower extremity and was of the opinion that a general consideration of the subject at the next meeting would to the advantage of all. Adjournment. W. F. G.

EXTRACT FROM MAJOR MCKINLEY'S SPEECH.

The platform indorses a protective tariff. We have no objection to American products and American labor. So long as foreign products can be found to tax which compete with our own in our market we propose to tax them rather than tax our own. The democratic party prefers to tax the domestic product rather than the imported. Every country that has a tariff policy the teachings of Washington, and Hamilton, and Clay, Webster, Lincoln and Garfield. They pursue the fallacies of Cobden, Bright and Calhoun, and the state men of the late southern confederacy. They are pledged to impede, if they can, the prosperity of the country until after the next presidential election. That is their mission now. Business declines and reverses are the ladder of their hopes. Prosperity and contentment among the people bring them sure political defeat. Idle furnaces, dismantled factories, silent mines, unemployed workmen, general distress are sure harbingers of democratic victory. They are discouraging industrial activity through their press and orators everywhere and every day, and it is their business to see any manifestation of industrial advancement in the United States. They sneer at every attempt to establish new factories and would gladly frown them down. It is the same sneer and frown which have been exhibited toward our industrial enterprises since 1861. But in spite of them we now lead the world in manufactures, agriculture and mining, and we are prospering under the new law in spite of their false omens and discouraging prophecies. They insist that we cannot make tin plate—so they said about steel rails, so they said about plate glass and cutlery and pottery, and when you take them to the factories and show them that we are making tin plate, they assert with intense pleasure that we are only making "a little." That is true—but how should we be making?—that are making any is the surprise, for the protective duty on tin has not gone into effect, and will not until the 1st of July.

Reflect for a moment—there is no section of the country, north or south, which is not seeking by every manner of inducement to get manufactures established in their midst. They are giving donations, they are offering bounties, in some communities they are taxing themselves and burdening their property for sake of securing industries which will employ labor and enlarge their neighborhood markets in the South, the great center of free trade; they are offering freedom from taxation for the next 20 years to those who will bring their capital and invest in productive enterprises, and this by authority of state law. And while all this is going on, the leaders of the democratic party are proposing to tear down the protective tariff and inundate this country with foreign competing products to displace those which these very manufacturers propose to make, and which the people are taxing themselves to establish. The people will come to see and understand this, if they do not already, and their votes will go where their material interests lie. They will not spend their money to build up and give their votes to pull down.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The semi-annual meeting of the Orleans County Union S. S. Association met in the Congregational church at Albany, Tuesday, June 16, at 11 o'clock. The first session was a social service conducted by W. B. T. Smith. The singing at this service, as well as throughout the convention, was under the direction of Mr. Schuyler Chamberlin, with Mrs. E. Andrus at the organ. Following this service, words of welcome were spoken by Rev. John McDonald, and responded to by the president.

The secretary read the records of the last meeting. They were approved. The report of the treasurer was deferred till a later hour. Adjournment.

At 1:30 p. m. a praise service was led by Bro. Schuyler Chamberlin. The first topic, "The Model S. S. Organization," was opened by F. W. Baldwin. His remarks were listened to with much interest. He was followed by several others. Some difference of opinion was expressed as to whether the elective or the appointing system should prevail in the Sunday School.

The opening and closing exercises of the S. S. was discussed by Rev. R. Christie, Bros. Clarke, Foster and others.

"The Model S. S. Helps" was taken up and discussed by Bro. F. W. Baldwin. By vote of the convention the discussion of this topic was limited to half past four o'clock. Revs. Phelps, Putnam, Chase, Christie and Fuller continued the discussion. Adjourned till evening.

Rev. W. E. Allen conducted a prayer and praise service.

After this service the convention took up the consideration of the part of paragon of the lesson on the part of the teacher and scholar. Prin. B. C. Day began the discussion. He would go to the Bible with prayer; then to profane history. Study well the character of the pupil. Ask questions wisely. The teacher should not preach much.

Wednesday morning. The devotional meeting was led by Rev. R. C. Christie. Rev. R. C. Moodie gave a Quarterly Review, using charts for the occasion. He was followed by Rev. I. P. Chase with a blackboard exercise. This was a very interesting and instructive session.

"The Model Teachers' Meeting." Inquiry revealed the fact that few, if any, such meetings were held in the county. Remarks were made by several of the brethren.

Rev. Mr. Fuller opened the topic, "The Model S. S. Examinations." He recommended Prof. Harper's "Examination Department" of "The Institute of Sacred Literature." Bros. Reynolds, Newcomb and others spoke to the point upon this subject.

The subject of "Rewards and Prizes" was opened by Mrs. James Cameron. She gave some experience that was of practical value. Others followed with helpful suggestions. Rev. R. C. Moodie offered his resignation as chairman of the Ex. committee, but it was not accepted. Convention adjourned for dinner.

At 1:30 p. m., the meeting was called to order by Rev. Mr. Smith. After singing, the subject concerning those outside the S. S. was considered. Miss Padlock read an excellent article entitled "The Home Department" of the S. S., might accomplish much in this direction. The topic for 2 o'clock was opened by Bro. Orem Newcomb. At 2:15 Rev. Mr. Putnam spoke on the cultivating of a spirit of benevolence.

Mrs. Cameron told of an S. S. in W. Woodbury that needed help, and asked the convention if they could not do something for it by way of sending S. S. letters. A good number participated in this discussion.

Dea. Chas. Carpenter spoke upon the theme, "The S. S. as an Evangelizing Power." His remarks were impressive and could not fail to do good. Mrs. Clarke was called upon and responded with a well prepared paper on the same subject.

3 o'clock was the hour for answering questions. A large number were handed in and answered by different members of the convention.

The president, J. P. Wheelock, spoke a few words to the Association, reviewing somewhat the work which it had done, and in earnest exhortation asked for more and better work for the Master.

The secretary and treasurer's report was read, accepted and adopted. A vote of thanks was extended to the people of Albany for their unbounded hospitality. The following delegates to the state convention, to be held at Newport the coming season, were chosen: J. P. Wheelock, R. C. Moodie, J. K. Fuller and E. L. Tracy.

A vote to have the report of the meeting printed in the county papers was carried.

The sessions of the convention were well attended and the interest increased to the last. The discussions, though mostly impromptu, were practical, and can not fail to result in great good to the Sunday School. J. K. F.

OUR BOSTON LETTER.

A noble amphitheater whose outer aisle measures more than four hundred feet; a sharply descending floor centering around the graceful chancel rail; a vast gallery almost as capacious as the main floor, and which swings clean around the building, and from organ to organ, a superb organ towering above the wilderness of orchestra chairs and forming a background for the speaker's pulpit—such a glance is the People's Methodist Episcopal church in the city of Boston.

The famous stained glass window in its front—probably as fine a piece of work as is to be seen in America—given in memorial to Bishop Gilbert Haven by his once fellow-clerics, Eben Jordan and ex-Sheriff Clark, is itself worth a visit to the church.

This is the most capacious Protestant church in New England, and one of the largest auditoriums in Boston. Its full seating capacity is about 2,500. The building has a remarkable history. Rev. J. W. Hamilton, D. D., became known through English-speaking Christendom by its construction. More than $200,000 was at one time raised for it by ten-cent pieces alone. Ten cents bought a brick. Literally the Christian world contributed. The property is well worth $300,000 in the estimation of good judges, and must soon enhance by land value alone to half a million.

It is a Methodist Episcopal church, yet the well-known breadth and liberality of that branch of Christians is here given, if possible, a new emphasis. Its history compels the People's church to be cosmopolitan. It stands for Christ and humanity. It is a church of the people from peak to foundation, steadfast in creed, broad in charity, fervent in working purpose.

A recent Sabbath spent in this church was exceedingly impressive. At 9:30 a. m. a devoted band assembled for early prayer meeting. The service was held in one of the rooms of the main chapel adjoining the main edifice. The spirit of the meeting was fervent with old Methodist fire. At 10:50 as we came out, thousands of people were thronging along the corridors and entering the vast, cool auditorium. The seats are all free, and people know it. No one intrudes. Voluntary contributions alone sustain the tremendous Christmas service carried on here in various services. What it is true that the great middle class predominate, yet there are the rich and the poor. Near me sat an ex-governor of Massachusetts who is deeply interested in this popular church. On a previous Sabbath the present governor of another New England state was pointed out to me, and following him down an aisle was a humble woman, almost infant boy in her arms if she came at all. Hundreds of young men and young women made an easily perceptible majority of this audience.

It is now 10:30 o'clock. The broad avenues are sending in the people yet. Signs of eagerness to secure good seats are on all these faces. We are courteously provided with programs printed especially for the services.

The thronging parties—upstairs some; hither and thither along these fan-distributing many aisles, others. It is already a mass of people that would crowd to repletion most churches. Still there is room. The grand organ—a memorial gift of a bereaved father for a noble son—is breathing solemn notes that jar and echo along the ample spaces, or pleading softly with notes that rise high towards the galleries. The problem of how to reach the masses—look around you now!

I am indebted to a friend who watches Boston churches closely for the Herald pictures of Dr. Haynes, the pastor, when preaching at Tremont Temple—a hall far less fitted for all the fine effects of oratory than this handsome church.

"Let all of us come in the man who is to lead this immense house of worship. A man neither tall nor short, an average-sized, well-knit man, with a small, combed head, dark hair, partially shaven face, possessing confidence in himself, but assuming nothing, taking it all as if he were of the manner born. He continues wrapped in his overcoat; nods to his deacons; sniffs the air like a race-horse, preparing for the start; with a serious purpose and reverent spirit calls the congregation to their feet, while the chorus choir leads the singing of the Doxology. In front of him an attendance that packs the immense auditorium from floor to ceiling. We can see the preacher's eye kindle and almost feel his heart swell with emotion as he casts a glance over the multitudinous throng, and thence whether his message can be better adapted to their needs. One with any soul and imagination can not help being moved at the sight. It thrills as you through and through. Here is such an audience as can not be found elsewhere in Boston, or in New England. At this point the preacher, whether he will or not, beyond the lines of denominational teaching, and fills him with that purpose to broaden his instructions to the needs of the universal man."

The sermon we heard was on "How to Believe God." Such pictures, drawn until they lived on the imagined canvas; such paths at times; such high and healthful excitement; such stillness in the room!

The chorals of a large number of voices leads the closing hymn. Rev. Mr. Gunnison, assistant pastor, adds a notice or two, and gracefully dismisses the congregation. Dr. Haynes has just said: "This is the Strangers' Church. I shall be honored if visitors will come to the chancel rail and shake hands with me." We join the procession that takes this greeting.

It is a world-wide visitation. Men from all parts of the country attend and give a word of greeting, many of them evidently not of the Methodist church, but cordially in sympathy with this cosmopolitan service.

There is more Cathar in this section of the country than in other districts put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years Doctors pronounced it a fatal disease, and prescribed local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Cathar to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Cathar Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 3 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any cure it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J.
